

Press Release

29 European countries; 67 job sites; 1 report!

A Rillieux-la-Pape, 27th July 2009

Rillieux-la-Pape (Lyon), 27th July 2009 - After receiving overwhelming response from the previous four editions, Aktor Interactive's 2009 edition of "International Market Report on European Job Sites" is ready to hit the market. Featuring 67 profiles of the most important generalist job sites from each of the 29 European markets; this report is a powerful tool for recruiters worldwide!

The report highlights key facts and figures from the featured job boards including all the vital information required by a recruiter to set up their on-line recruitment campaigns in Europe. This includes the Job Board's history, latest innovations, marketing activities, media data and list prices for job posting and on-line advertising. Moreover, Aktor's specialised consultants have added recommendations on each job board, making this report an informative channel for recruiters who seek European talent.

To keep readers abreast of the current Global and European market trends, a detailed introduction provides descriptions of the principal e-recruitment markets and their development in Europe and across the world. This includes articles from several recruitment experts from different continents such as Africa, the USA, Australia and the UK and info on the Middle Eastern and Indian markets.

Whether you are a recruiter, an advertising and/or recruitment agency or a head hunter; this report will prove invaluable for broadening your cross border knowledge. More details, including price, can be found on www.aktor.co.uk
